- Have you developed any unique IP so far?

The ownership of any Intellectual Property (IP) that underpins participating startups must be clearly highlighted and understood by both the founders and the selection committee, including ilab. This is to enable assessment of the startup potential at time of application, and ensure the value of that IP is not inadvertently compromised, nor its ownership misrepresented to investors throughout the program. Where IP is owned or controlled by others, this needs to be clear and transparent at the time of application. Of particular note is UQ IP (for example IP from UQ research) where UQ's Intellectual Property policy will apply and founders will need to commit to that if relevant.
