

Simple Agreement for Future Equity - SAFE

Summary

This is an executive summary of the SAFE note attached. It does not form part of the SAFE note or change the terms of the SAFE note. It is for information only and is not legal advice.

A SAFE note (Simple Agreement for Future Equity) is a type of convertible security that is used by start-ups to raise capital from investors. SAFE notes are typically used in seed rounds, when a company is just starting out and does not have a lot of financial information to share with investors.

SAFE notes are not debt instruments, so they do not have a repayment date or interest rate. Instead, they convert into equity later, typically when the company has a subsequent funding round.

The SAFE note investment is provided by UniQuest Pty Limited ('UniQuest'). UniQuest is the commercialisation Company of The University of Queensland (UQ).

Here are some of the key features of this SAFE note:

- Money is paid to the Company upfront in instalments for the Company to use for business purposes.
- By providing funds under a SAFE note, UniQuest does not become a shareholder and thus has no right to vote or receive dividends, unless UniQuest later becomes a shareholder.
- UniQuest will be issued shares if there is a fundraising event – called a Qualifying Financing.
- A Qualifying Financing is where there is a fundraising by the Company where the capital raised is at least $50,000 from third party investors which may include UniQuest.
- When UniQuest is issued shares at the time of a Qualifying Financing, the number of shares issued to UniQuest will be calculated using a price that is a discount to the fundraising price for shares. In effect, the funds provided by UniQuest now will be used to purchase these shares at a discount in the future. We don't know today how many shares will be issued – this will be determined in the future as part of the Qualifying Financing.
- If there is an Exit Event before there is a Qualified Financing, then UniQuest can elect to get its money back or receive ordinary shares at a discount price. An Exit Event includes, for example, an IPO or the sale of the business of the Company.
- If there is no Qualifying Financing or Exit Event within 5 years, and the Company has not been deregistered in the interim, then UniQuest has the right to be issued shares in the Company at a discount to a pre-determined value.
- If the Company wishes to issue new shares, then UniQuest will be given the first right to purchase such shares on the same terms that will be offered to others.
- UniQuest does not promise to make further investments in the Company other than as required by the SAFE note.
- The Company must provide ongoing information to UniQuest.

Overall, SAFE notes can be a good option for startups and investors who are looking for a simple and flexible way to raise capital. However, it is important to understand the risks and limitations of SAFE notes before using them.
